Donaldson Company, a leading worldwide provider of innovative filtration products and solutions, is expanding its presence in the food and beverage markets by launching its filtration services in France, Germany and Austria. This initiative reinforces the companyâ??s commitment to product and process integrity, with Donaldson specialists delivering their renowned innovation directly to customers' locations.

â??Supporting our customers in achieving optimal process and product integrity is a key goal,â? said Veli Kalayci, Donaldsonâ??s General Manager of Global Food and Beverage. "Our filtration services provide manufacturers with the assurance that we are with them throughout their filtration systemâ??s life cycle, offering on-site support and tailored solutions to support their sustainability, efficiency and efficacy goals."

Services include sterile air and liquid filter integrity testing, equipment calibration, compressed air quality measurement (ISO 8573) and comprehensive filter management, including exchange, maintenance and commissioning.

"Our approach combines global expertise with a strong local presence," added Kalayci. "Our customers will benefit from our service teams working in close collaboration with Donaldsonâ??s extensive support network of over 1,000 engineers, scientists and technical specialists worldwide."
