Monde Nissin Corporation, a global food & beverage company headquartered in Manila, Philippines, has joined Food Industry Asia (FIA), expanding the association’s network of responsible businesses. Monde Nissin started operations in 1980 with annual sales of USD 3,000; it now has a presence in more than thirty countries, with revenue exceeding USD 1.2 billion in 2016. Monde Nissin places emphasis on its commitment to provide healthier and more sustainable food.

In 2015, Monde Nissin acquired Marlow Foods, the manufacturer of Quorn, an innovative brand that offers a sustainable, healthy protein source. Quorn is the first global brand of an alternative protein source to achieve third-party certification of its carbon footprint figures. It has been approved for consumption by the strictest Food and Drug Administration (FDA) authorities around the world, and since its launch in 1985, it has served more than 3 billion meals in more than 15 countries to date.

Since 2000, Monde Nissin has been consistently included among the top 50 corporations in the Philippines, based on gross revenue. Monde Nissin’s growing and diversifying portfolio accurately represents the company’s vision for a sustainable food industry.
