

Coca-Cola Bottlers names Kimberly Green Reynolds as Chief Procurement Officer

08 November 2023 | News

As Chief Procurement Officer, Kimberly will lead the CCBSS Procurement organisation with ultimate responsibility for more than $70 billion in procurement spend

As Chief Procurement Officer, Kimberly will lead the CCBSS Procurement organisation with ultimate responsibility for more than $70 billion in procurement spend

Coca-Cola Bottlers's Sales & Services Company (CCBSS), a limited liability company owned by nearly 70 independent North American Coca-Cola bottlers, announced that Kimberly Green Reynolds has been named as the company's Chief Procurement Officer reporting to Brandi Shortt, CCBSS President and CEO. Kimberly will have further accountability to the Bottler Procurement Advisory Committee and the CCBSS Board of Directors.

As Chief Procurement Officer, Kimberly will lead the CCBSS Procurement organisation with ultimate responsibility for more than $70 billion in procurement spend. She will collaborate with leaders across the North America Coca-Cola Bottling System, Coca-Cola North America Operating Unit (NAOU), and Coca-Cola System suppliers to serve the organization's customers in value creation and risk mitigation while delivering a competitive advantage. "We are very proud to have Kimberly lead our incredibly talented Procurement team," said Brandi Shortt CCBSS President and CEO. "She brings an incredible depth and breadth of Coca-Cola System, beverage industry and bottler experience, gained over over two decades. This adds valuable perspective to our strategy as we continue working for the Coca-Cola System in the most innovative, collaborative, and effective manner possible."