

ReadyWise joins forces with FAO to provide meals in South Sudan

10 January 2024 | News

As part of this collaboration, ReadyWise has supplied 5,000 emergency meals, a combination of nutritious breakfast, lunch and dinner options, for FAO's operations in South Sudan

As part of this collaboration, ReadyWise has supplied 5,000 emergency meals, a combination of nutritious breakfast, lunch and dinner options, for FAO's operations in South Sudan

ReadyWise, a trusted and authorized supplier of emergency food to the United Nations, is delighted to announce a strategic collaboration with the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO). This underscores ReadyWise's commitment to supporting humanitarian efforts and providing essential sustenance in challenging environments.

As part of this collaboration, ReadyWise has supplied 5,000 emergency meals, a combination of nutritious Breakfast, Lunch and Dinner options, for FAO's operations in South Sudan, to support the urgent need for reliable food provisions for the dedicated staff working in the region.

The key benefits of the provided meals are the following:

Shelf-Life: Products can last up to 25 years. Easy to prepare. Just add water.

Small Portions: Individually packed in 4 serving pouches. This eliminates waste, consolidates storage space, and ensures variety and easy distribution.

Bucket System: Comes in stackable buckets that are easy to store and lightweight, so they can easily be transported to an emergency venue.