

Netherlands?? Dawn Foods announces acquisition ofÂ Royal Steensma

07 February 2024 | News

The acquisition includes four manufacturing plants inÂ The Netherlands, a manufacturing facility inÂ Thailand, and continued involvement with the Food Innovation Academy (FIA) education centre inÂ The Netherlands

The acquisition includes four manufacturing plants inÂ The Netherlands, a manufacturing facility inÂ Thailand, and continued involvement with the Food Innovation Academy (FIA) education centre inÂ The Netherlands

Global bakery manufacturer and ingredients supplier Dawn Foods announced the acquisition of Royal Steensma, a renowned family-owned bakery ingredients manufacturing company headquartered in Leeuwarden, The Netherlands.

Royal Steensma has a broad bakery product portfolio and specialises in fat-based coatings (Souplesse), almond and confectionery pastes, bakery mixes, fruit fillings as well as infused and candied fruits and decorations. Royal Steensma has been a leader in the bakery market for almost 185 years.

The acquisition includes four manufacturing plants in The Netherlands, a manufacturing facility in Thailand, and continued involvement with the Food Innovation Academy (FIA) education centre in The Netherlands. Additionally, all Royal Steensma employees are now valued team members of Dawn.

"We are proud to welcome the team from Royal Steensma to Dawn and to build on our shared bakery knowledge and history of providing incredible products to bakers all around the world," said Dawn Foods' Chief Executive Officer, Carrie Jones-Barber. "The expansion of our manufacturing capabilities and product portfolio further strengthens our mission to provide customers with bakery solutions that truly inspire and help them achieve their business goals."