This new addition expands the brand's already diverse lineup of plant-based ready-to-eat oats brekki, a ready-to-eat oats brand known for its nutritious and flavorful offerings introduced its limited batch flavour: orange ginger. This new addition expands the brand's already diverse lineup of plant-based ready-to-eat oats, providing consumers with a delicious option for a refreshing morning meal or satisfying snack.

Crafted with brekki's signature blend of ancient grains, almonds, oats, chia seeds, and organic coconut nectar, each serving of the orange ginger flavour is infused with warming notes of citrus and spice to ensure a satisfying experience with every bite. This vibrant combination is a match made in oats heaven, plus is perfect for enjoying on a cosy, winter day.

"We're excited to bring our fans a flavour that's both cosy and invigorating," said Aimee Tsakirellis, Executive Vice President of Marketing at Cedar's Foods. "Orange ginger is all about finding that perfect balance between a bright, citrusy zing and a warming, spiced finish. We can't wait for people to experience this delicious blend, ideal for a nourishing start to the day or anytime as a protein-packed snack."

brekki is committed to quality, sourcing only the highest quality, non-GMO, and gluten-free ingredients, to meet a variety of dietary preferences. Each flavour is carefully formulated to deliver a balanced blend of nutritious ingredients and flavours, offering a wholesome start to your day or a nourishing snack whenever you need it.
