

Rachel's Organic releases two new products

30 November 2017 | News

Welsh dairy brand Rachel's Organic has announced the launch of a new organic natural yogurt range as it responds to consumer demand for healthier yogurts.

The brand, which is owned by Nestlé® and Lactalis, is made from 100% organic Welsh milk sourced from Rachel's local farmers and features a newly formulated recipe

Welsh dairy brand Rachel's Organic has announced the launch of a new organic natural yogurt range as it responds to consumer demand for healthier yogurts.

The brand, which is owned by Nestlé and Lactalis, is made from 100% organic Welsh milk sourced from Rachel's local farmers and features a newly formulated recipe.

Daniel Wheeler, Lactalis Nestlé Chilled Dairy marketing manager said, "We have always strived to provide consumers with the highest quality, best-tasting premium organic dairy products, and with our new range of natural yogurt we can officially say we have the best-tasting organic natural yogurt on the market.

"This is testament to the hard work that goes into ensuring every pot of Rachel's yogurt provides an unrivalled taste experience. Consumers expect the best from Rachel's and their feedback is extremely important to us as it allows us to innovate and develop new, superior tasting products.

"We hope Rachel's fans will continue to offer us their invaluable feedback and support that enables us to grow as we strive to match their exceptionally high expectations."

The organic natural range is available in UK supermarket Waitrose, priced at £1.65 for a 500g pot.