Lallemand Health Solutions will present its latest science-backed innovations in probiotics and postbiotics at SupplySide Global, taking place in Las Vegas, USA, on October 29 and 30, 2025. The spotlight will be on solutions for healthy aging, women's health, immune support, and mental health, all supported by robust clinical research.

Women's Health: Prenatal and Menstrual Research

"Year after year, important R&D efforts are invested to bring forward innovative health solutions for women and it's paying off," says Lodie Aragon, Product Manager for the women's health portfolio. Visitors will discover the results of two new clinical studies: one on probiotics and menstruation, and another focused on support during pregnancy with Prenatis.

Healthy Aging: Introducing Cerenity

"We are proud to present Cerenity, a powerful blend of three flagship probiotic strains designed to modulate the gut-muscle axis and support mobility, strength, and overall vitality in aging or sedentary populations," says Camille Binachon, Marketing Group Manager for the healthy aging portfolio. A recent clinical trial combining Cerenity with a prebiotic showed that the combination brought beneficial effects on physical performance and quality of life. "Our extensive portfolio also includes solutions for cardiovascular health and cognitive health to support healthy aging," Binachon adds.

Award-Winning Postbiotic IMMUSE® for Immune Health

Earlier this year, Lallemand Health Solutions and Kirin Holdings Company, Limited announced a strategic partnership to expand the visibility of IMMUSE, one of the most documented postbiotics for immune support. "We're excited to present this clinically supported solution to meet growing market demand," says Romane Maillet, Marketing Group Manager for the postbiotics portfolio.

Cerebiome: Demonstrates Benefits on Overall Wellbeing, Including Sleep

A pioneer in gut-brain axis research, Lallemand Health Solutions presents new findings on Cerebiome, its flagship psychobiotic. “This year, we’ve gathered compelling evidence showing Cerebiome’s benefits on overall wellbeing, including sleep quality and skin appearance,” explains Karine Lasfargue, Product Manager for the mental health portfolio. A proof-of-concept study revealed improvements in perceived stress, circadian rhythm, and holistic beauty, reinforcing Cerebiome’s potential beyond occasional stress.

Science-Driven Innovation

“Scientific research is a key driver of product development at Lallemand Health Solutions,” says Isabelle ChampiÃ©, Vice President of Sales and Marketing. “We’re proud to document the health benefits of probiotics and deliver effective solutions to consumers. We are eager to meet with our partners and future partners at SupplySide Global!”
