daRosario Organics, the nation's only producer of 100 per cent USDA certified organic truffle products, will debut a new line of single-serve packaging in early 2018, the first in market for wholesale and retail food service distribution.

daRosario Organics, the nation's only producer of 100 per cent USDA certified organic truffle products, will debut a new line of single-serve packaging in early 2018, the first in market for wholesale and retail food service distribution.

Products will include individual packets of certified organic white and black truffle oil, white truffle acacia honey, white and black truffle mayonnaise, white and black truffle vegannaise, and extra virgin olive oil.

The packets will enable food retailers to offer customers gourmet condiments made with 100 per cent real truffles as an enhancement to their existing menu.

The individual packets are easy to store and dispense, allowing retailers to upgrade their truffle offerings on items such as pizzas, sandwiches, french fries, burgers and salads that deliver the great taste of real truffles in a cost efficient manner while reducing overall product waste.
